

The Brethren are Crumbling

We have obvious signs that the EB's are crumbling as B D Hales the cult leader loses power. I think we can fairly state here, that the main person who knows Hales is not special and not 'pure', is Hales himself.

Correspondence with his members show a great turning away from him. It is a only matter of time and exposure till the pure man theory is destroyed. These comments by his disgruntled followers show his time of leadership is coming to an end. More and more are speaking out, and gathering strength as they gain confidence and a judgement, that they do not belong to a church, but a cult.

Quote; The money we make and what we are left with after subscribing to the demands of BDH, is vastly different.

Quote; We are starved of spiritual food, as the meetings are taken up with quotations from 'our beloved'.

Quote; Our young families are leaving, they will not put up with the control and bullying. We don't see our children.

Quote; We have no privacy, my computer was examined by a person in another country, they have access because we are tied into Wordex, then there is the One Focus rip off.

Quote; Many of us don't see the need to be under the pressure to conform to BDH rules. Surely there is something more.

Quote; It is great being able to speak to you Alan, you are our first contact outside the brethren, we are shocked by your experiences.

Quote; I am really not believing in this pure line nonsense any more. We don't know what to do as we are tied in to this, we stand to lose all if we leave unless....Can someone fix it for us?

Quote; I am out now, thanks for the friendship, I have lost my family, Hales has persuaded them I am wrong so they left. BDH, it's not over yet. I am beginning to hate Hales.

Quote; I am just a back seat brother, but I am sick of Hales being worshipped.

Quote; He sent his bully boys to try frighten me, I am waiting to get out, with MY family.

Quote; Hales should be in jail. He has robbed us for years.

Quote; Hales is a criminal, and so are his henchmen, they are criminals, they do everything he says. He says do it, they do. Many terrible things have been done at his orders. I believe much is hidden but will eventually come out and he will be jailed.

I have more I could put on here, but the message is clear. Hales is in trouble. The leadership as they say is losing it. Threats won't work much longer. This system of powerful leadership has held families in fear for years. To those still in, believe me it is ending.

Another quote; BDH proclaimed that he will be coordinating the Rapture

Quote: Very often I feel stuck. When we get news that BDH has said he will co-ordinate the rapture it makes us see just how stuck we are. We know this is wrong.
WHO IS GOING TO STAND FOR WHAT THEY BELIEVE AND MOVE AWAY FROM DICTATORSHIP? THERE IS A LIFE THAT YOU CAN LIVE, MAKING YOUR OWN DECISIONS, HAVING NO INTERFERENCE AND BULLYING IN YOUR LIFE. IT IS CALLED FREEDOM!!

On the forums we have help for you, support! We have truth. There are those on the forums who have struggled against what you are now, they have come through the other side, the side of life, and are there for you now!

I have the permission of a young EB member who has contacted me to relate his growing disappointment in the leader of the brethren.

Quote; Why do the goal posts move? We get one set of orders and have to make changes then everything changes again. I have met some young people who go to a Baptist Church and they seem happy and don't seem to carry the worry and fear of breaking rules that we do. They make decisions on what they know themselves not what a leader tells them to. They have never heard of being "shut up" or "withdrawn from" or "separation". They are not frightened of being separated from or losing their families. They get taught from the bible where we taught only what BDH says. I don't think this is right anymore, I know some of my EB friends are also unsettled. I have learnt that the Baptist do not have a pure man as their leader who get lots of money from its members.

It has been said by the Hales EB that if the Bible were to be rewritten it would include B D Hales ministry. This shows the level of indoctrination he has installed in many of his followers.

However, this statement has unsettled many EB members who are shocked by such a statement, and strengthens their resolve to find the truth and act on it.

Regarding the terrible earthquakes in New Zealand, Bruce D Hales said, "Christchurch needs a good shake up anyway."

He is referring to the unrest and the fact that many New Zealand brethren are losing confidence in him. He is due to visit New Zealand this week leading meetings in an attempt to regain his power, and assure the brethren he is THE MAN!

Pity he seems to have little sympathy to show for the victims of the quakes. Is his interest only commercial? Well, according to some of his brethren it is!

From Sydney,

BDH seems stressed as to the level of devotion to him dropping off. Many are seeing him for what he is, just a human being who is commercially minded.

He is leaving for New Zealand and is worried about what may happen in Sydney whilst he is away, so he has left some heavies in charge, same as he did on his last trip to Leeds in Britain.

Quote: Somethings he has said and his obvious stress all point to the fact that he is worried. He has questioned his brethren's commitment to him, something he has taken for granted for years. This has happened in meetings publicly and he has voiced concerns privately.

Well, that is encouraging, is this cult breaking up?

Quote : In New Zealand during B Hales visit the brethren are being urged to keep their thoughts on the pure line, which includes Bruce Hales. The warnings that the enemy is at work have been stressed more than ever and we have been 'encouraged' to remain commitment to the teaching not only of B Hales, but that of the great leaders. The importance of Mr Taylor Junior's teaching was stressed more than others. There is worry that us New Zealanders do not seem so together and unity was spoken of, I suppose that means unity with Hales.

It always surprises me (and others) that Taylor Jnr is held up so much, a man who's reputation for immorality, alcoholism and bullying which caused mayhem among the lives of many, yet he is spoken of as pure, spoken of with reverence and his so called teaching more than that of the bible.

Watching the faces of the brethren listening, many hanging on to every last word, others totally disappointed in the same old rubbish and hero worship of men. At last some are beginning to talk privately together about the lack of spiritual food and the negative hold Hales has over us. Hope for us yet?

. "Whatever you do, however hard it gets, do NOT leave home!

This is part of the great cover up plan operating in this cult. In other words, "Stay hidden, stay quiet and leave the perpetrators alone."

It has been reported that MR B Hales has been given a note book containing names of brothers who have carried out crimes of sexual abuse against young girls. The crimes have also been named and we await a proper upright reaction from the leader. Those who know now carry responsibility to report these matters to the police for investigation. By that I mean the so called priests who interviewed and received this information. You are answerable to the law first, not Mr Hales.

The order has been given to investigate how many computers have been converted from Wordex. Both of the issues here show that he is worried and aware his system is crumbling, having to try so hard to keep all together and quiet must be such a problem.

Many have lost complete confidence in the leader, it is beginning to show by the information that is being released. The brethren want freedom!

Lately the NZ brethren have been referred to as a growing concern, so that means Hales isn't pleased with them, he feels he is losing his grip with them, in my view that is great and I hope that the brethren keep thinking.

Some things we never thought we would see collapse in our lifetimes such as the Berlin Wall and the collapse of communism in Russia. Amazing to see that all cults eventually go down the same road, and now that we are seeing the EB empire crumbling it strengthens your belief in the One who really matters; not a mere self-elected man, who you might have put your faith in foolishly like I did at one time.

Money can buy you many things but not a ticket into Heaven or permanent control of the minds and souls of poor brethren.

Alan quoted me on this point and it is something that is changing. B D H is conscious that many are beginning to see through him and the ministry recently has been a desperate attempt to assure us of his power, his importance in God's kingdom and his importance to us. He is showing signs of complete stress to a state of paranoia.

He has put lots of weight on recently and could be comfort eating or drinking, he is also sweating lots. This may seem odd to those who do not know him, but signs are he is feeling the stress. There has been lots of talk of the coming attack on the pure line (which is Alan's book,) and then we have websites where truth is told, he knows the brethren are reading them, although it has been strongly discouraged.

We are being told again, that the end is near and we must be in order. This includes our financial matters which would greatly affect him if they were not in order. He wants more businesses and more successful ones at that. Yes, you can guess why.

Recently he wanted to meet all the children in a place who were 10 years old. This is mere politics to show how much he cares, as commented elsewhere on this website, it is a form of grooming, and a show of power that he can order this.

Yes, we are crumbling.
